BOY, 16, CONFESSES TO SLAYING AUTHOR IN LONELY CABIN

HINT VISIT TO COLONY WAS MOTIVE

Writer One of Few to See Mysterious Cult Near Albuquerque

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Feb. 6. (AP)—Modesto Trujillo, 16, confessed today, Sheriff Ross Salazar said, that he killed Carl Taylor, vagabond magazine writer, in his lonely mountain cabin near here last night.

The boy, who led officers to the body last night with the declaration Taylor had been shot by two masked assailants, admitted, Salazar said, that he fired the fatal shots himself and robbed the dying writer of an undetermined amount of money.

He broke down after long hours of questioning when officers confronted him with a small rifle, found in a trash pile near the cabin.

Trujillo first admitted ownership of the gun and then made a full confession, the sheriff said. Officers immediately accompanied the youth to the site of the cabin, near a colony of "Penitentes," strange religious cult of which Taylor had been writing, to find the place where Trujillo said he had hidden the money.

While authorities were content with the boy's statement that theft was the sole motive, some of the slain writer's friends still clung to the possibility that there might have been some connection in the killing with Taylor's writing and photographing of the "Penitentes."

Temple of Worship. It was pointed out that Trujillo accompanied Taylor to the "Morada" temple of worship, when he obtained his pictures and there was the added fact that none except those in the order knew for certain of its membership. Taylor was one of the few outside the order who ever witnessed the strange religious rites of the "Penitentes."

Taylor saw them—and died 24 hours later, with three bullets in his brain. In the cabin was the manuscript of an article the young vagabond writer had just completed. It dealt with "Penitente" customs.

Re-Stage Crucifixion. The "Penitentes" practice flagellation and other forms of self-punishment. Their weirdest rites take place the week before Easter when the members, nearly all Spanish-American, carry heavy wooden crosses and re-enact with elaborate pageantry and savage realism the crucifixion of Christ. In earlier days they would nail members to their crosses to die. Now wire and rope is used instead of nails, and the victims are cut down before they perish from exhaustion.

PENNY STRETCHERS. LOS ANGELES, Feb. 6. (AP)—The Southern California Telephone company is irked by people who moisten pennies, dip them in salt, and use them in lieu of nickels in pay telephones. The telephone company claims it lost $2,000 monthly through this practice.

One More Mump'll Make It Unanimous

It must be a big enough task under any circumstances for the James Gilchrists of Pocahontas, Ia., to take care of their 16 children, but it was a lot tougher when 15 of them came down with the mumps at the same time. And it was expected the lone "holdout" would capitulate. The Gilchrist family is pictured here, with the three youngest, triplets, being held by Mr. and Mrs. Gilchrist. (Associated Press photo.)

G. O. P. GROUP IN DISTRICT ELECTS

The Orange County Republican assembly last night added a few new notches to its organization when it elected officers in the 75th assembly district. Leo Fris, Anaheim, and Ray Overacker, Huntington Beach, were named vice presidents to function in the 75th district.

Dr. Glenn Curtis of Brea, president of the county-wide organization, presided at the meeting in the Anaheim Elks club.

Directors named were Thomas Wylie, Huntington Beach; Paul Bowen, Midway City; Vernon King, Garden Grove; Fred Dukes, Buena Park; Edward Backs, Placentia; Lucien E. Proud, La Habra; George Kellogg, Yorba Linda; Raymond Thompson and Milton Corcoran, Fullerton, and Max Henderson, Anaheim.

S. C. Hartman, former assemblyman from the northern district of the county, talked to the group on the life of Abraham Lincoln.

The assembly group in the 74th assembly district, comprising Santa Ana and other southern parts of the county, will meet next Tuesday night at James cafe to elect a similar group of officers, according to E. M. Sundquist, executive vice president.

REFEREE GIVES DECISION

"Judge" Charles D. Swanner today had decided his first case. Mr. Swanner, appointed referee by Superior Judge James L. Allen, rendered a "verdict" in favor of George P. Sheehan for $23.28 against the Absopure Fruit Products, Inc., of Anaheim. His report to the court was approved and judgement entered in that amount.

Mr. Swanner was appointed to act as referee and in effect to sit as a judge trying the case in which Mr. Sheehan sought judgment for $6432.40, which he contended was due him in commissions as a salesman for the defendant concern. His territory included a number of Middle Western states.

Referee Swanner found that the only amount due was $23.28. Mr. Sheehan also complained that he was discharged Jan. 1, 1935, but the referee found the defendant was entitled to cancel the contract of employment because of asserted failure of Mr. Sheehan to cover all his territory. His employment began Oct. 12, 1933.

MORE ABOUT BLOCKADE

that year, even the originally honest ones must choose between beggary and lawbreaking.

Opposition to officials in three Northern California counties to the Los Angeles ban on transients was outspoken, but the influx was reported stopped in seven other counties.

Six Guns Seized. A total of 227 transients failed to gain entry at stations on the Arizona line, patrolmen fingerprinting eight of them and seizing six guns.

Cold discouraged travel on freight trains in the Sierra Nevada mountains. Only one indigent was arrested at the Truckee outpost, and he announced he would "spend the winter in Florida."

Oregon officials considered plans to cope with any complication of their relief problem by the border barrier. Nevada's governor, Richard Kirman, said "I don't think the blockade is anything to worry about."

Los Angeles city officials marshaled in support of the police program of halting "hitch hikers" and railway fare evaders. Led by Mayor Frank L. Shaw, they insisted that the assignment of 136 patrolmen at points from 200 to 600 miles outside the city limits to prevent "dumping" of transients was legal and vitally necessary.

NEVADA ASKS GOV. MERRIAM TO INTERVENE

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 6. (AP)—Governor Merriam received a telegram today from Gov. Richard Kirman of Nevada asking that he intervene in the attempted blockade of California's borders against indigents by Los Angeles police.

The California executive said he would reply to Governor Kirman, but declined to comment.

LEGAL STATUS OF SIGNALS PROBED

Installation of proposed new traffic signals at the First and Main street and Seventeenth and Main street intersections has been indefinitely postponed pending authoritative legal opinion on their locations. It was announced yesterday by City Attorney L. W. Blodget.

Specifications for the new signals, to cost approximately $1100 each, call for them to be placed at the far side of the intersections. A ruling of the United States bureau of roads requires all signals to be placed at the entrance to the intersection, where federal funds are used.

Similar traffic signals recently installed in the city of Alhambra, Mr. Blodget said, were the object of an injunction suit filed against the city, and their operation has been stopped pending a court decision on the legality of their location.

Although the state highway division, through Robert E. Reed of the legal department, is lending assistance to Alhambra in the suit and has given its opinion that the signals are legally placed, Santa Ana will await the final outcome of the argument before going ahead with installation of the signals here.

If it were ruled that the signals were illegally set up, the city would be liable in case of accident at the site, it was stated. They are to be constructed with funds from the gasoline tax refund to Santa Ana for construction on state highways within city limits.

The new signals will not be of the "arm" attachment type, but will be lighted. Those installed at the Seventeenth street intersection will be operated automatically by treadles in the street approaching them.

Ernest Layton, street commissioner, explained the Main street signals at Seventeenth will read "go" at all times except when approaching cars throw the automatic device causing them to change.

CHURCH GROUP HEARS WORK DONE BY MISSIONARIES

Echoes of missionary work were brought to the Women's Home Missionary society meeting of the First Methodist church yesterday afternoon in the social hall of the church.

Mrs. C. D. Lane gave word pictures of the work being done in the East Coast in 19 different branches from New Hampshire to Florida, on to Porto Rico and San Domingo, in hospitals, settlement houses and various homes.

Miss Dora Saunby, recently returned from a world tour, in which she spent nine months working in the mission hospital in Kolar, India, reviewed her experiences. "Girlhood of India" was her main topic. She used snapshots taken there to illustrate her subject. She was dressed in a silk sari, typical costume of women of India.

Mrs. Harry N. Hays closed the program with a song.

A memorial tribute of silence was paid to Mrs. George Faires, long-time member who recently died here. Mrs. H. W. Guthrie, president, officiated.

CHANDLER DAUGHTER WEDS

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 6. (AP)—Constance Chandler, daughter of the publisher of the Los Angeles Times, and Earle Edgar Crowe, Los Angeles broker, were on a honeymoon today after their marriage in Yuma, Ariz. Crowe formerly was financial editor of The Times and his bride once worked as a reporter on the newspaper's staff.

Questionnaires received yesterday by a number of Santa Anans indicate the likelihood that Frank R. Harwood will be made postmaster for Santa Ana without opposition. These questionnaires come from the civil service commission, and Mr. Harwood's name alone appears upon them.

Mr. Harwood, a Democrat, became acting postmaster Dec. 2, succeeding T. E. Stephenson. Early in January the time for receiving applications for permanent appointment as postmaster went by. While it was believed that Mr.

Harwood was the only applicant, that was not known to be a fact until the civil service questionnaires arrived yesterday.

After the civil service commission passes upon the matter, Mr. Harwood, in the ordinary course of procedure, will be recommended by Postmaster General Farley for appointment. The appointment will then be made by President Roosevelt, and confirmed by the United States senate. The appointment will be for a four-year term dating from the day of confirmation by the senate. The position pays $3800 a year.

GARLIC'S ODOR USED AS AID TO MEDICINE

Science is now finding a use for the odor of garlic and its lowly cousin the onion, so long tabooed in polite society. That they may become curatives for tuberculosis and leprosy is revealed in experiments being conducted by Dr. C. C. Lindgren, chairman of the bacteriology department of the University of Southern California.

Results from over 600 tests show that the fatty germs, such as those that cause the two dreaded diseases, are most easily affected by the odors of garlic and onions just as they permeate butter in the refrigerator.

Since the method was inaugurated in 1910, 160 persons have been electrocuted for criminal offenses in North Carolina.

Here and There With The Journal's
Rambling County Editor
By T. N. (BRICK) GAINES

FRED CASON, down at San Juan Capistrano, has lost a fishing companion, and the whole community has lost a friend.

Father Arthur O'Sullivan is dead.

Folks down there tell us that almost every day in the year Father O'Sullivan and his friend went fishing. In the morning the two would start out for the pier at Capistrano beach—the only thing that'd stop 'em would be rainy weather.

We can realize what a personal loss it must be to Mr. Cason. It's no fun to go fishing alone, after you've had a companion for so many years.

Seems like almost everyone in town is saddened by the priest's death. He was in poor health for long—but died in the harness. That morning he said mass. In the afternoon he was gone.

And little children of the mission school will miss him greatly. The school was one of his joys. His brother, the Rt. Rev. Mgr. St. John O'Sullivan, restorer of the mission, was greatly loved. There was great mourning when he died in 1933. There was mourning again yesterday. The mission had lost another friend.

In San Clemente we caught the city tax collection department in the act of consuming the afternoon coffee and doughnuts.

Cliff Easley, auditor, and Den M. Acres, who is city attorney in addition to being tax collector, were both gulping their version of afternoon tea.

Up in the city hall, City Clerk Bill Holmes was acting as if he was mad. He was almost snorting. But we found out that he didn't mean it.

He's just that way.

He was growling over some grievance—never did find out what it was—when Roy Strang, maintenance superintendent, wandered in with questions about something or other. That cooled Bill off—gave him something else to worry about.

We forgot to ask Roy Strang how the Men's club is getting along. The last we heard of 'em, they were giving dances so that kids of the community would have a Merry Christmas. Looks like we'll have to go back to San Clemente again, to find out what they're doing.

Wandered about some in the Spanish Village, trying to find out something about fishing.

We'd heard that a couple of fishing barges were anchored off the coast there, but couldn't see 'em. Went in to ask Geoffrey Hamilton, bank manager, about his fishing feat, but he was busy—the banker gained distinction (?) by being the first charter member of our Barnacle club by catching two snail—one through the eye and the other by the tail—not so long ago.

So, not being able to find out anything about the fishing in the bank, we asked Eddie Saxe the price on dollars—which he quoted at the current rate of one buck—and went about his business, which probably made the bankers happy.

However, residents at San Clemente are planning big things for summer—a fishing contest which is going to make everyone but the fish happy is planned.

All sorts of prizes, for all sorts of fish, will be offered when things get a little warmer, according to several.

Do you suppose that county editors are eligible for any of those prizes? We mean as fishermen, not fish.

Business in the dog department is picking up.

Not that anyone's come in and asked us for the nice, friendly, amiable, barkless pup we've been trying to give away. Far from it—but, almost as good, Mrs. Rachel Powell, in Orange, has asked us to aid her in finding a home for her pooch.

Her dog's named "Rags."

"Rags" is a friendly animal, half poodle and half wire-hair, or some such mixture. He's mostly hair—it even hangs over his eyes, and he's not afraid of large dogs—he's small, himself.

So, if we could only find someone who wanted two dogs, we'd be happy.

Come to think of it, we've found lots of people who don't want one. If we could find someone who doesn't want two dogs, would that help any? Or would it?

So, if anyone should meet a friend who doesn't want two dogs, tell him about us. We don't, either.

ARMORY PROJECT AT ORANGE IS TURNED DOWN BY STATE

EXPENSE IS REASON, CLAIM

Council Receives Word
From Kelly; Anaheim
Not Affected

ORANGE.—That the city of Orange will probably not obtain the proposed National guard armory was indicated at a meeting of the city council last night, when a letter was read from Earl Lee Kelly, director of public works, pointing out that the project calls for an expenditure of more than $1300 per man year and therefore can not be approved.

Two armory projects in Orange county, one at Anaheim, and the other here, were approved by the adjutant general, but were awaiting state approval and sponsorship. No word has been received at Anaheim today regarding approval or disapproval of the armory there.

W. K. Hillyard, acting city engineer, reported that a contract for the Batavia street resurfacing job is about 50 per cent less than estimated so requested that the city revise its account, and enter into an agreement with the state for expenditure of the surplus gas tax on some other project.

The 1.2 miles on Batavia street, according to the estimate, will cost the city $4065 in gas tax money, and the federal government $7496. Due to an increase in collection of gas taxes he estimated the city will receive $620 more tax for the coming year.

Revised plans have been sent to Sacramento for state approval of the Glassell street and Chapman avenue paving project, and Mr. Hillyard said he expected to hear within a few days if these plans had been accepted. If the plans are accepted, it will be at least a month before the work will begin, he added.

Classell street will be paved one block each way from the Plaza, as will Chapman avenue. Estimates submitted in December have been revised, as bids on the former were too high, and could not be accepted by the state. The new setup provides no widening of the streets as formerly.

A petition to amend the parking ordinance on Glassell street and Chapman avenue was presented by a number of merchants and an ordinance was given its first reading, making it unlawful to park on those streets, one block each way from the Plaza for longer than one hour, except on Sunday.

SEAL BEACH.—The Methodist church where little Jackie Ward, 8, attended Sunday school and church, was the scene of his funeral yesterday afternoon.

Jackie was killed last Sunday when a cave in which he was playing with other boys of the community collapsed.

School friends and adults from all walks of life attended the services. The church was filled with mourners and many friends stood on the steps and walk of the building. The Rev. Chester Lewis, pastor of the church, and the Rev. Robert J. Coyne, past pastor, officiated.

Six of the boys who were also trapped in the cave when the water-soaked earth roof collapsed and killed Jackie, were pallbearers and carried his body to the grave.

Members of his class at school were honorary pallbearers and stood guard as his bier passed from the church to the waiting hearse which carried the remains to the Westminster Memorial park for burial.

Pallbearers were Stewart Lawhead, hero of the tragedy; Bill Taylor, who almost perished in the cave-in; Frank and Bill Fether, Ronald Brown and Ralph Drent.

'MERCHANTS OF DEATH' IS TOPIC FOR LIONS CLUB

ORANGE.—"Merchants of Death" was the title of a speech made by Arthur Corey, assistant superintendent of Orange county schools at Wednesday's meeting of the Lions club.

Senator Nye made a fatal error when he got off the question of delinquency in the recent investigations, and into the question of politics, he said. However he was maneuvered into it, the speaker added. J. P. Morgan attempted in every way to sidetrack the investigation, he declared, and the DuPonts were linked when they were taxed with making a huge profit during the World war, although they finally admitted it.

"In 1916 the Navy league was formed, apparently of patriotic American citizens who feared we would be found with an insufficient navy if a war should occur," he said, "now the same group is called the Liberty league, and it has been discovered the league was formed and financed by the Midvale Steele company which built ships for the navy, and 14 individuals, among them Charles M. Schwab, J. P. Morgan, Colonel Thompson and B. F. Tracey, who helped furnish the navy with munitions," he said.

Mr. Corey concluded his talk with a quotation from a letter to stockholders of a munition company: "Of late the munition business has been in a bad way, but we hope that soon this will all be changed, all indications point to a greatly increased demand, the munitions business is looking up, but for the blessings we are about to receive may the Lord make us thankful."

Arnold Pinson was program chairman, and the president, Alvin Drumm, announced that the Lions county council will be held in Orange Feb. 17.

"Suit" Yourself With A New Knit

Household Arts by Alice Brooks

PATTERN 5524

Come spring—what's to succeed the top-coat? A knitted suit, of course, and none more serviceable or easily made than this softly tailored style whose neatly belted jacket is just plain knitting, with stripes in an easily learned contrasting stitch. Note the linked closing and crisp revers. The jacket would be smart too with a cloth skirt.

In pattern 5524 you will find complete instructions for making the suit shown in sizes 16-18 and 38-40; an illustration of it, and of the stitches needed; material requirements.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to The Journal, Household Arts Dept., 117 East Fifth Street, Santa Ana, Calif.

SAN JUAN SPRING FIESTA COMMITTEE IS NAMED

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO.—Permanent organization of a committee to plan a spring fiesta here was completed Tuesday night at a meeting of residents in the local justice court.

Judge John Landell was chosen by the group as chairman, and Harry McCurdy as secretary-treasurer. An executive committee consisting of Mrs. Fred L. Krueger, Robert L. Callis and E. A. Nydegger was also named. The chairman and secretary-treasurer will act with the committee.

After some discussion of the proposed fiesta, the group unanimously decided to hold a two-day fiesta Saturday and Sunday, April 18 and 19. The Saturday evening celebration will be in the form of a street dance, with both modern music and melodies of the early Californians, played by a native orchestra. Sunday afternoon it is planned to have a parade with both mounted units and marchers taking part.

Plans are being made for the entire population of the mission city to dress in the costume of early days.

Jimmie Cook, member of the night school faculty, is reported writing a pageant of old Spain which is to be produced on the campus of the Union High school during the fiesta. Word was brought to Tuesday night's gathering that Mr. Cook and his cast will cooperate with the main fiesta body.

Joe Avila, president of the Spanish-California club was present, and assured cooperation of his organization in every way possible. Capistrano American Legion post, the Woman's club, Riviera club, P.-T. A. and other groups have given whole-hearted support to the spring fiesta.

But report that the dusky athlete is two or three weeks away from starting. In a recent workout in Andrews gymnasium Porky dropped three pounds, hitting an even 165. . . "I'm not ready yet," said he. Frankie Lockhart, diminutive blond kid, is training Bell for his start at the Orange County Athletic club.

Cheer-up item: Fishermen who know report that the spotfin croaker and yellowtail fishing is expected to start within a short time along the coast. . . especially in Newport harbor. Recent deepening of the port will aid angling, say authorities.

Wonder - what - became of department: The local appearance of the Tilden tennis troupe, advertised in shouting headlines a few months ago? Agitation for junior college baseball? All the Head College supporters?

Robert Moses (Lefty) Grove, who is everybody's hero, says the toughest ball game he ever lost was a 1-0 decision to Dick Coffman, then with the Browns, but now with the Giants, in 1931. . . it ended a winning streak of 16 games and spoiled Grove's chance to set a new American league or all-time record for consecutive wins. . . "Jim Moore missed a fly ball he should have caught in his pants pocket," Grove's teammates recall.

Right Field Patrol Needs Aid, Gould

By ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—Among other things, the right field patrol offers an excellent chance for several of the wounded or missing to make comebacks along the major league baseball front this spring.

Outstanding in this respect are Wally Moses of the Athletics, Bruce Campbell of the Cleveland Indians, and Chuck Klein of the Chicago Cubs.

Moses, freshman sensation among American league outfielders last season, and Campbell, obtained by the Tribe from St. Louis, both were hitting at a .325 clip when forced out of action. Moses broke an arm in mid-season, and Campbell was taken dangerously ill with meningitis. Full

YANKEE BALL MEN UNHAPPY 'More Cash' Cry of Players

By RUSSELL J. NEWLAND

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 6.—(AP)—Big league baseball players who winter out this way for the most part looked upon 1936 contracts with favor but in several instances a peek at the document put the boys in a wrangling if not a belligerent mood.

An Associated Press survey reveals about one-quarter of the group of more than 30 are dissatisfied with salary terms as first offered.

The New York Yankees, with the far west, also list the most discontented, four of seven snubbing written advances.

Joe Di Maggio, rookie outfield prize obtained from the San Francisco Seals for $25,000 and several players, has never seen a big league park but he wants a bigger salary than was offered. The report is he received a contract calling for around $800 a month, whereas he hopes to don a Yankee uniform at $1000 per.

Tony Lazzeri, Yankee second baseman of years standing, is blue because his salary was cut. His running mate, Shortstop Frankie Crosetti, was dumfounded to get a contract calling for $1,000 for the season. The club wanted this routine in order to find out more about his injured knee. Crosetti says it is sound again.

The fourth Yankee non-signer is Pitcher Jimmy Tobin, recalled from the Oakland Coast league club. Tobin is outspoken in the belief he is worth $100 per month more.

Floyd (Arky) Vaughan, leading shortstop and hitter of the National league, thinks the Pittsburgh Pirates have done wrong by him in view of his sensational season. He wants a bigger raise.

The National league's perennial holdout, Ernie Lombardi of Cincinnati, is in winter form. The big catcher was granted a boost in pay but wants it increased.

KEN NISSLEY NOW AILING WITH FLU

Junior College Quintet Ready for New Test at San Bernardino

Sharp-shooting on both sides marked a lively basketball exhibition dominated by Santa Ana Junior college over the Community Church league's champion Mormons, 44 to 37, in Andrews gym last night.

Kenneth Nissley, petite freshman who has been caging as high as 12 points in a single evening, was out of suit with a touch of the "flu," but Coach Al Reboin expects his scoring star to return to action this week.

The game further prepared the Dons for their Eastern conference struggle at San Bernardino Saturday night, and Capt. Bernard (Bus) Snow's Mormons for their sectional play-off with San Diego here on the same evening. If the Mormons win from the south-easterners, they will go into play-offs at Huntington Park to decide which team represents Southern California at the National Mormon championships in Salt Lake City next month.

Thomas (Tommy) Lacy, all-conference forward, plunked in 16 points for the Dons, and Center Fred Erdrhaus contributed the splendid total of 14 for most of the fire in Santa Ana's attack. A good-looking reserve, Guard Clarence Riggs, rolled up eight points, all in the second half.

The Dons speeded up their attack, and did right well with a faster break which they may use at San Bernardino. That the Mormons could hold the junior collegians to a seven-point margin was not surprising inasmuch as the Latter Day Saints are comprised of polished prep stars.

Ernest Acker and Charley Denio, former Saint players, were outstanding for the Mormons with 12 and 11 counters. Their team was stunned by an 11-point lead earned by the Dons in the first half, but dismissed the margin to 21-16 at the intermission. The second half was about even, with Santa Ana maintaining a 23-21 edge.

The lineups:
Dons (44) (2) Pos. (37) Mormons
Lacy (14) (2) F. (12) Acker
Padias (13) (2) F. (12) Denio
Erdrhaus (14) (2) C. (6) White

Dons 21 23-44
Mormons 16 21-37

Substitutions

HEAD PLAY HITS SPEEDY PACE

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 6.—(AP)—Head Play led a trio of handicap favorites through workouts at Santa Anita park yesterday, breezing a mile and one-eighth in 1:41 2-5.

Cavalcade, Mrs. Isobel Dodge Sloane's threat for the $100,000 handicap Feb. 22, did the route in choxy fashion, and was clocked at 1:53 4-5.

His chief rival in the big race, Discovery, was slower with 2:00 1-5, breezing. Top Row ran the mile in 1:39 3-5, and Azucar, last year's Santa Anita handicap winner, did it in 1:40 1-5.

REFEREES STAR IN CALZA WIN

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 6.—(AP)—The referees stole the spotlight and the fans' attention when George Calza, Italian heavyweight, won two out of three falls from Ed (Strangler) Lewis.

Referee Dick Rutherford had to be escorted from the ring after spectators accused him of giving Calza a "short cut" as Lewis took the first fall last night at the Olympic.

Referee Don McDonald was recruited, soon disqualifying Lewis for using the illegal strangle hold. Calza finally won the match with a series of body slams.

CONCORDIANS TRIP MILLS, 43 TO 28

Wilted under a breath-taking finish, Manager Quentin Matzen's Woolen Mills were easy prey for Coach Vic Baden's Orange Concordians in Southern California Y. M. C. A. league basketball, 43 to 28, at the Santa Ana "Y" last night.

The "Conquering Concordians," unbeaten in seven conference trials, were held fairly well under control by the struggling Santa Anas for three periods. Baden's basket-hitting brigade, however, pierced the iron ring with devastating regularity in the closing 10 minutes to gain an 18-7 command.

Plodding along without the services of Harold Spangler—whose loss is recognized as a decided handicap by those who have seen the "Fustin boy" play—Santa Ana was unable to put up the same fight the cloth manufacturers did at Orange in extending the Concordians, 32-28, in the first round.

Spangler is ailing with a swollen ankle, and may not be ready for the Woolen Mills' game with U. C. L. A.'s 145-pounders in a preliminary to the Stanford-U. C. L. A. varsity feature at Westwood tomorrow night.

Larry Leichtfuss, rangy brother of the heavyweight, Harvey, was the chief thorn in Santa Ana's side. He played the entire game, scoring 13 points. Harvey garbled four in the only quarter he performed—the fourth. Walt Gunther and Clarence Pargue ruffled the mesh for eight counters apiece. Lanky Fred Wiener fired the attack of the Santa Anas with 11 points.

The lineups:
Concordia (43) Pos. (28) W. Mills
L. Leichtfuss (13) F. (6) Stephen

ALUSTISA SAYS SIGHT IS GOOD

PALO ALTO, Feb. 6.—(AP)—The owlish eyes of Frank Alustiza which were almost blinded by a football injury, are as good as ever today.

"I never saw better in my life," the Stanford halfback said today.

"Dr. (Hans) Barkan thought I was fooling him when I read the eye charts. He told me before he began burning the nerve or whatever he did, that I'd have to wear glasses at all."

"When I read the charts he wouldn't believe me and put a lot of non-standard charts on the wall. But I could read them, too. So finally he agreed that I didn't need glasses at all."

Winter Games Are Opened by Hitler

GARMISCH-PARTENKIRCHEN, Germany, Feb. 6.—(AP)—Facing some 1500 tanned, robust, eager athletes, Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler today opened the fourth Olympic winter games amid a scene of unique grandeur.

The Nazi chieftain spoke the words prescribed for the opening ceremony by the international Olympic committee:

"I proclaim open the winter Olympic games of Garmisch-Partenkirchen celebrating the fourth winter Olympiad of the modern era."

Simultaneously a German army band played the Olympic hymn, all church bells of Garmisch-Partenkirchen pealed, the flames of the Olympic fire soared heavenward from a gigantic steel tower next to the ski jump, a signal division of the German navy hoisted the Olympic flag and salvos of cannon shots thundered from the mountain heights, reverberating from valley to valley.

Since an hour before the opening, the competitors from 28 nations had stood ready with their trainers and Olympic delegates on the road leading from the little village of Partenkirchen to the Gudiberg with its festively decorated ski stadium and snow-clad hillsides.

DON RUGGERS FACE CLOIS KEY HERE

Clois (Ted) Key U. C. L. A.'s widely-publicized football ineligible, was slated to play for Santa Monica in a rugby game cancelled by rain here last week.

Tomorrow night the former Bruin back will be with a new team—Movie Actor Vic McLaglen's Lighthorse 15 of Los Angeles—which invades the Municipal bowl for an hour and 20 minutes of action with Santa Ana's Dons.

"Pants" Livesay, U. C. L. A. grid celebrity, is another addition to the McLaglen crew, which now carries strength with the Pasadena Majors, who trimmed the junior college, 8-0, here two weeks ago.

Coach Al Reboin was selecting his lineup today for the invasion of the Lighthorses. A week from tomorrow night his Dons combat the U. C. L. A. varsity in the Sixth and Flower street stadium.

LIEB WILL STAY, SAY LOYOLANS

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 6.—(AP)—Loyola university athletic heads are confident Tom Lieb will be back to coach football next fall.

Henry Rodkin, chairman of the athletic board, said a contract has been drafted, and all that it needs is Lieb's signature. Rodkin intimated the matter had been decided and Lieb, who had been threatening to go elsewhere, would remain for another three-year period.

The proposed salary was reported to be $10,000 a year under the proposed contract.

CANZONERI AND M'LARNIN SIGN

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—(AP)—Madison Square Garden has signed Tony Canzoneri, lightweight boxing champion, and Jimmy McLarnin, former king of the welterweights, for a 15 round non-title bout early in May.

The bout, considered a "natural," will bring together two of the ring's most popular fighters for the first time. McLarnin has not fought since he lost his title to Barney Ross last May. Canzoneri, who has been active in non-title bouts, last defended his crown against Al Roth in October.

Coast Leaguers Ready to Start Training Workouts

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 6.—(AP)—Pacific Coast League clubs have selected training "cations" and all will be in action, at least with batteries, not later than Feb. 25. San Diego will train at Fullerton; Sacramento at Riverside; Oakland at Modesto; Missions at Monterey; Seattle at Santa Monica; Portland at Ventura; San Francisco at Fresno, and Los Angeles at San Bernardino.

The Seattle Indians will be the first in action. Walter (Dutch) Reuther and Johnny Bassler being ordered to start tutoring the potential papooses at Santa Monica within a few days.

Harry A. Williams said that there are elements in the situation which point to a banner year. The entirely new setup in Sacramento, backed by the St. Louis Cardinal organization with its almost inexhaustible supply of player talent, is expected to revive interest in the capital city for the benefit of the entire circuit.

The inclusion of San Diego in the circuit by removal of Bill Lane's Hollywood Stars to the southern city, is expected to help accelerate interest.

FASCIST WAR MACHINE TO SPEED UP

'Smiling Defense' of British Border From Italians Reported

(By the Associated Press)
Further development of the Fascist party as a military organization was predicted today by high Fascist sources in Rome.
The prediction was important, for it was predicated on the theory that further militarization of the party would be necessary to take care of the internal situation in Italy should a European war develop.

Quiet On Front
As for actual military activities, there was little reported except in the case of a British officer on frontier duty along the border between the British colony of Kenya and Ethiopia. The Briton discovered that an Italian column, advancing along the border, had placed a marker six feet over the line on British soil.

His majesty's officer protested with a smile. The marker was placed back where it belonged.
U. S. Officer Visits
Another neutral officer who appeared on the battlefield was Maj. Norman Fisk, United States army, who visited Makale as an observer. He will go next to Tembien and Aksum to watch the fighting.

In Addis Ababa, the Ethiopian government announced that the Keren region had been attacked for the sixth time from the air with no serious damage.

The attack indicated that the Italian air service apparently has begun a more intensive bombing of Emperor Haile Selassie's route between Dessye and Addis Ababa.

At the present time, the emperor is in Dessye, living in the former Italian consulate.

BREAKFASTERS HEAR CHANEY

Members of the Santa Ana Breakfast club today heard Homer Chaney, Santa Ana banker, in an address on taxation and the causes of inflation.

"Inflation," Mr. Chaney said, "does not simply mean the issuance of more currency. It means anything that tends to cause an undue rise in prices. There are in the main four causes of inflation or rising prices.
"First, the expansion of government credit, or the issuance of bonds, will tend to cause an undue demand for consumers' goods. Second, the overuse of future earnings for present enjoyment or buying will cause inflation. Third, the overuse of bank credit where a great portion is used for speculation will cause inflation. And lastly, taxation which, to my way of thinking, is the most insidious form of causing a rise in prices, or inflation."

Mr. Chaney went on to say that various forms of taxation tend to cause a decrease in the cost of production. The taxes in this statement are those which provide police protection, fire protection and easier means of transportation, thereby making production less expensive. The other type of taxation which tends to cause an increase in the cost of production is passed right on down to the consumer and is the type to be avoided, if possible, he said, adding that this latter type is the tax which causes an increase in the cost of production, resulting in inflation.

Santa Ana Has First and Latest 'Salinas Queens'; One Won Her Title in 1899

By VIRGINIA SMITH

She may have ridden a demure side saddle and worn skirts and a tight corset as part of her habit, but she was the first queen of the Salinas rodeo, nevertheless. And that puts Santa Ana in the limelight for famous equestriennes.

For this city has both first and latest queens of the Salinas rodeo—Mrs. Mollie Barden, who won the title in 1899, 37 years ago this June, and Miss Barbara Rowland, the present queen, whose title this year was changed to Outdoor Girl of California.

Mrs. Barden lives at 1212 West Third street. For several years she has been confined to her bed or wheel-chair. But for all of her 72 years, the Scotch-Irish woman still has a zest for horses and remembers vividly her riding days.

Saddle Was Prize
"We lived on a ranch about seven miles from Salinas," Mrs. Barden began her tale. "Forty couples were riding in the fair—they held the fair the first year at Salinas and the riding was a part of it. Mike Hughes, the saddle-maker, called me in just before the exhibition and showed me the beautiful ladies' side saddle he'd made. I always was a hand to be around the saddling shop anyhow.
"Do you know what I'm going to do with this saddle, Mollie?" he asked. "I'm a-going to give it to the most graceful and best woman rider in the fair. And you can win that saddle."

"Well, that was a beautiful piece of work. It had a long flowered velvet skirt with a ruffle of tan leather on it and I just set about sure enough I did win the saddle. I've treasured it all these years and wouldn't think of parting with it."

Riding pants and sombreros wouldn't have been respectable for women when Mrs. Barden won the prize. She wore a long full skirt of navy blue, weighted with lead. The top was a double-breasted coat, split at the back like a man's swallow tail, with gold soldiers' buttons on either side and trimmed with gold braid. One year she wore a man's fedora and another year chose a blue velvet trimmed with gold braid for her headgear.

At least the toes of Mrs. Barden's black button shoes could be seen in her less discreet moments, and she confessed that she wore a long, full petticoat and always a stayed corset underneath her togs.

"I never rode astride a horse in my life," declared the ex-queen. Before Mrs. Barden entered the exhibitions, she always frilled her own horse. Its tail and main had to be braided the night before, so they would come out full and wavy.

Won Another Prize
"Tom, the horse I rode in the Salinas exhibition was a full-spirited animal," said Mrs. Barden. "First we had to walk, then trot, gallop and finally when we got around to running the horses, I let him go full speed and he came whirling around the track." Mrs. Barden also won a silver tray for her riding the following year when the fair was moved to Sacramento.

When the equestrienne came to Orange county almost 35 years ago, she brought along two black carriage horses, Babe and Dixie, that set the country-side a-talking.

"I never ate anybody's dust," said Mrs. Barden, "and if the girls, (referring to the horses) would get to lagging behind, I'd pull a little on the reins and say 'They'll getcha,' girls, and we'd spurt ahead."

Mrs. Barden had one experience driving an automobile but declared that it wasn't any fun at all.
"There's just no animation there. I'd rather have a horse."

Fame of Journal's Rain Contest Is Spreading

Came today a letter from Chet Congdon of the Coastline Dispatch, agent the current Journal two-inch rain contest. How our fame spreads!

"I have been watching the 'rain-guessing contest' being sponsored by your paper," Chet says, "so would like to call your attention to the only guess we have made in regard to rain in our community."

"Let me quote an excerpt from my column printed in the Coastline Dispatch of Dec. 13, 1935: 'Dave Ross says we are not going to have an inch of rain until Feb. 1...'

"Now that comes pretty near to hitting the nail on the head and he gave us this information over a month and a half ago. Couldn't you arrange to send this umbrella prize to Ross in recognition of his ability in putting out this accurate advance information? Even a slightly used one would be o. k. as we have long since quit hoping for the best down here and try to be satisfied with what we get."

"I'll be seeing you, so for now, adios."

"P. S. You might make that a beach umbrella for we'll have to admit Dave's head is slightly swollen."

And on the heels of all this southern-county publicity comes a note from Robert Buchheim, route 1, box 43, Santa Ana.

Two Out of 3 Fatal Crashes Happen In Small Cities

CHICAGO, Feb. 6. (AP)—Two out of every three automobile fatalities last year occurred in small towns and rural communities, the national safety council reported today.

A survey of the 36,000 fatalities in 1935 showed that two-thirds occurred in towns of less than 10,000 population and in rural areas, and only one-third in cities of more than 10,000, the council said.

Decrease in City
City auto deaths numbered 11,800 last year, a decrease of nine per cent from 1934. In small towns and on country highways the total was 24,600, or a 6 per cent increase.

The rise of auto deaths in rural communities has been constant since 1924, the council found.

3,200 Jaywalkers
Of the 8,000 city pedestrian fatalities, 3,200 victims were jaywalkers and about the same number were killed at intersections. The remaining 1,600 city deaths included children playing in streets, men working, and others.

The remaining 20,500 victims last year were occupants of vehicles figuring in accidents attributed to the usual causes: speeding, passing on curves and hills, weaving in and out of traffic, failing to obey traffic signals and improper turning.

Intoxication played a relatively small part, the council said.

For the country as a whole the total of 36,400 dead was the largest in history. It was twice as high as in 1923.

S. P. TRAIN KILLS 13 DAIRY COWS

INCREASE TIRE ADVERTISING

Announcement came today from P. C. Handerson of Akron, advertising director of the B. F. Goodrich Co., of a larger newspaper advertising appropriation for 1936 to back up an extended sales campaign for Goodrich tires.

The statement was made to the gathering for the annual regional advertising conference of the B.

NEW TWIN BILL AT BROADWAY

Two features of high entertainment value will be shown at the Broadway theater starting today. The pictures are "Three Live Ghosts," a comedy, and "Drift Fence," a Zane Grey western.

With Richard Arlen in the leading role, "Three Live Ghosts" deals with the adventures of three soldiers who returned from the war to find themselves officially "dead." Arlen is a wealthy American youth who thinks the police are looking for him; Charles McNaughton is a Cockney, and Claude Allister is an English nobleman who has been shell-shocked and has a mania for stealing things.

"Drift Fence" features a cast which includes Larry Buster Crabbe, Katherine DeMille, Tom Keene, Benny Baker and Glenn Erickson.

F. Goodrich Co. held recently at the Biltmore hotel, Los Angeles. "Not only are business conditions better for the country, but conditions within the tire industry are much improved and we look forward to the best year we have had for some time," Mr. Handerson said.

Highway safety is dependent on good brakes and good tires as much as anything, Mr. Handerson continued. And even good brakes are useless with worn, smooth tires.

POLITICAL WAR INTENSIFIED AS LEADERS HURL HARSH WORDS

FARLEY RAPS 'POWERS' OF LEAGUE

Knox Charges New Deal With 'Bribery in Humanity's Name'

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6. (AP)—From coast to coast, the political war intensified today, with battling leaders flinging such terms as "bribery" and "predatory powers" at each other.

In Florida, Postmaster General Farley assailed the American Liberty league as "predatory powers" speaking for "reactionaries."

Col. Frank Knox, speaking at Vincennes, Ind., last night, charged the New Deal with "bribery practiced in the name of humanity."

In charging "bribery," Knox declared:

"Think of handing a man a relief check or a relief job or a relief check and then demanding that he vote for you on the penalty of having the necessities of life taken from him."

While Senator Borah (R., Ind.) faced the cameras for the first time as a fully caparisoned Presidential candidate, determined to better the established party leadership, Colonel Knox called for Republican harmony.

Farley Attacks League
With Farley attacking the Liberty league, one of its directors, former Gov. Joseph B. Ely of Massachusetts, criticized the administration's "brain trusters."

Another attack on the league—bitter foe of the administration—came from Brooks Hays, an assistant to Rexford G. Tugwell, under-secretary of agriculture. He declared in Atlanta that if the league's principles are accepted, "the south is doomed."

Farley ignored the name of Alfred E. Smith, chief speaker at a league dinner here less than a fortnight ago. But he struck out sharply at the organization whose members include such Democrats as Smith, party Presidential nominee in 1928, and John W. Davis, the 1934 standard bearer.

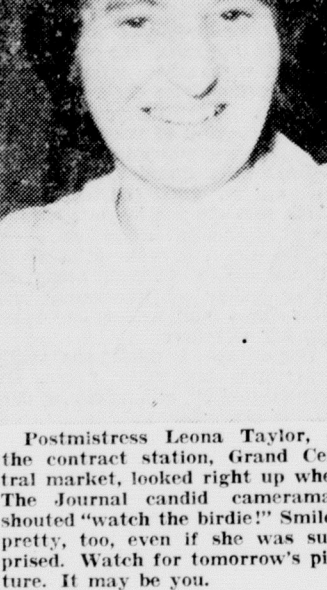

Lauds Roosevelt
"The league," he declared at a Roosevelt dinner in Miami last night, "speaks as conclusively for the reactionaries and their party as does Mr. Hoover, the United States chamber of commerce and the National Manufacturers association."

Farley declared not a single man in public life approaches Mr. Roosevelt "remotely" in the capacity "for public service and leadership."

Ely, campaigning to elect an unpledged delegation from his state to the Democratic convention in June, had a word to say about Farley. He asserted the President "forgot the pledges of the Democratic party... as well as the names of the leaders of his party," and that "fortunately for him, he did retain Mr. Farley to attend to the purely political manipulations."

BETTER FEED 'EM'

ALTURAS, Calif.—If Los Angeles wants to arrest hordes of drifters crossing the state line it should arrange to feed them, Sheriff John C. Sharp of Modoc county declared today in refusing to issue deputy commissions to 14 Los Angeles officers.

"I don't want to take any chances of them molesting our citizens," Sheriff Sharp said.

'BANKHANDLING PROBLEM'

BAKERSFIELD.—Chief of Police Robert Powers appealed to City Manager Fred W. Nighbert today to intercede with federal authorities to do something to stop the influx of homeless men into Bakersfield. Powers said "panhandling" on the streets was becoming a problem.

PRaise FOR POLICE

LOS ANGELES.—Praise for the plan of Chief of Police James E. Davis to turn back penniless transients at the California state line was voiced by the Los Angeles Times.

HE'S NOT EXCITED

CARSON CITY, Nev.—Gov. Richard Kirman of Nevada said today he "could not get excited" about the blockade of California's borders against migratory unemployed persons by police of Los Angeles.

"I don't think the blockade is anything to worry about right now," the governor said.

'BEE' APPLAUDS

SACRAMENTO.—Under the heading "Los Angeles Police Should Stay at Home," the Sacramento Bee, commenting on the attempt of Los Angeles police to stop the influx of itinerants, said:

"Of course, it is easy to understand and even to sympathize with the purpose of this move... but a dangerous precedent is being set when a municipality seeks to have its officers perform duties for which there is no warrant in law and to use summary methods against persons who have themselves broken no law."

MARKING TIME

SAN BERNARDINO.—Chairman C. E. Grier of the county board of supervisors announced the board was awaiting a report from Sheriff Emmet L. Shay on the matter of deputizing Los Angeles policemen as sheriff officers in the border blockade.

NAZIS CLAMP DOWN AGAIN ON JEWS

Ban Meetings to Check Rioting as Winter Olympics Open

BERLIN, Feb. 6. (AP)—The third reich enforced a ban on meetings of all Jewish cultural organizations today in an effort to forestall any renewal of anti-Semitic rioting as the fourth Winter Olympic Games opened at Garmisch-Partenkirchen.

The government, through its minister to Bern, also placed an official request before the Swiss government to "discover and prosecute those behind" the assassination of Wilhelm Gustloff, former leader of the Nazis in Switzerland.

'Political Murder'

The reich government said the slaying of Gustloff at Davos Tuesday by a Yugoslav medical student, who described himself as David Frankfurter, a Jew, was "a serious affair which was without doubt a political murder."

A German official communication said the shooting "clearly was a sequel to the leftist press campaign against Gustloff, which continued despite the German minister's protests."

Jewish Tutors Banned

Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, minister of press and propaganda, announced that the prohibition on meetings of Jewish cultural organizations, such as theaters, would remain in effect until further notice.

Bernhard Rust, Prussian commissioner of culture and education, at the same time forbade Aryan university students to employ Jewish tutors as "contrary to academic dignity."

An unidentified girl passenger and co-pilot arrived with Hughes.

The Thinkers

Wherein women of the community express their views on topics of particular interest to women

Do you think lawlessness would be curbed if we had fewer laws and more strict enforcement of them?

Miss Agnes Adams—Regardless of the fact whether there were more or less laws, if the ones we have were better enforced, it would be an improvement. It seems to me however, that it would be easier to remember fewer laws.

Mrs. Natalie C. Dean—There is no question that the laws should be more strictly enforced, and that those with a "pull" should not be exempt. As to whether fewer laws would help, I just don't know; there is always the question of which ones should be done away with.

New 'Luminous' Straw Shown In Resort Hats

Something new under the Florida and California sun is this "luminous" straw with iridescent highlights. Helen Marshall, blond soprano, here wears the original "mother-of-pearl" hat designed by G. Howard Dodge. The rectangular crown also is a new note and in the back there are short streamers of straw and shoulder-length streamers of chocolate grosgrain ribbon.

The meeting was also the occasion for Reciprocity Day with the president and a guest from each society in the Santa Ana Valley association invited to attend.

If the Girl's a Flirt and You Don't Want to Play, Hunt Another Young Woman to Love

Breathes there a girl with soul so dead that never to herself has said, "I can get a date with that man."

And so would seem to be the attitude of the girl friend of Anxious who wrote today's letter. It's no fun for some young things to have a steady and stay by him. They must have much attention and flattery.

One of The Journal's cartoonists covered the subject not long after Christmas when he put into the mouths of one of his woman characters this sarcastic bit: "I did pretty well on those three neckties. I got a gold watch, a fur scarf and a bottle of Christmas Night."

I'd say Anxious, that if you're really serious about the girl, you'd better put the matter bluntly. She either loves you or she does not. If she does, she won't play around with other dates. If she doesn't, then you don't want her anyhow. That is if you have any pride or spunk of your own.

The young man's letter follows: Dear Miss Stoddard: I am in great difficulty and think perhaps you in your wisdom may be able to advise me.

The girl I love is of a fickle nature and is stringing along another fellow at the same time that she is more or less encouraging my advances.

Sometimes I think she really loves me; but other times, she passes me by and gives a date to the other fellow.

What shall I do, let her alone or try to force her to decide between us? ANXIOUS.

American Telephone Is Push Leader With Five-Point Gain

By VICTOR EUBANK
NEW YORK, Feb. 6. (AP)—Selective strength, particularly in communication, rail and specialty shares, stimulated bullish sentiment in today's stock market.

American Telephone led the forward push with a gain of some 5 points. Worthington Pump was up about as much, and Western Union advanced 3. There were many new five-year tops recorded. Issues ahead fractions to around 2 included Case, Mack Truck, Chrysler, International Telephone, Lambert, U. S. Steel, Delaware & Hudson, Atlantic Coast Line, Louisville & Nashville, Union Pacific, N. Y. Central, International Telephone, Johns Manville, Goodyear, Goodrich, Firestone and Borden.

The dollar more than held its own against leading foreign exchanges. Bonds were in demand. Cotton improved and grains were narrow.

New York Stocks

RECORDS SET BY AVOCADO RETURNS

The 60 per cent smaller volume of fruit marketed by the Calavo Growers of California during the first quarter of this season has returned cooperative growers more in total proceeds than a year ago, it was announced today by Manager George B. Hodgkin of the growers' cooperative. A total of 75,000 packed boxes was marketed during the first quarter of this season, compared with 184,000 during the same period of last season. The better returns this season are attributed largely to the greater marketing experience and year-around sales contracts, to the advertising and to the creation of many new outlets for avocados in the more distant markets of the country by the growers' cooperative during the last 12 months. Other factors include the association's operation of an increasing number of virtually self-supporting branch offices and of commission items throughout the country, and the marketing cooperation of Florida's organized growers.

Despite this season's crop being twice as large as the greatest produced up to last season, returns are the highest for many years. The first quarter's total is the highest for any first quarter in the industry's history. Fruit marketed during the first month of this season, excluding windfalls, brought the highest average return since September, 1932. The second quarter's average over all grades and varieties topped that of the preceding month. The average for December's pool, containing 45,000 packed boxes, was the highest for any December since 1929, when only 36,000 boxes were marketed in all.

This December or third marketing pool, although containing 40 per cent less fruit than that of the year before, returned cooperative growers a 67 per cent greater total, or $22,500 more, than did December, 1934.

Washington, Feb. 6. (AP)—A group of Californians asked the justice department yesterday to act against alleged racketeering in eastern auction markets for fresh produce and vegetables.

The group talked with Attorney General Cummings and was referred to the departments antitrust division.

They told the attorney general that activities of racketeers, particularly in the New York auction market, cost California producers of perishable products upwards of $1,000,000 annually. They pleaded for federal intervention.

In 1782 the North Carolina assembly passed an act requiring residents of each county to attend church and other public meetings and to take their guns and six rounds of ammunition with them.

1936, only slightly more than $4,000,000 was controllable with out change of laws or constitution.

What Tax Bill Absorbs And, one of the most amazing things to come forth, Gov. Merriam said that the total tax bill for state, counties, cities and special districts now absorbs one-third of the income of the entire state.

So from the conference came this realization: That no taxes are forthcoming or desired by the state; that the budget is to be balanced inside of three years, and that welfare costs (except those in connection with old-age security) are to be slashed more than any other division of tax expenditure.

Another Resolution A second resolution dealing with public welfare problems requested the federal government to allow states to use their own residence requirements to establish eligibility for benefits of the old age security pension.

The committee which outlined the resolutions on welfare problems was formed following requests from the floor by Mr. Jerome for the abolishment of SRA. Chairman of the committee was Dr. Frank Gigliotti, San Diego, a member of the state welfare board.

Although Gov. Merriam painted a hopeful picture of the taxation future of the state to the delegates, Mr. Wood said, he pointed out that of an estimated $231,000,000 budget for the single year.

Business on Upturn These figures, introduced to the conference by Governor Merriam and Director of Finance A. E. Stockburger, are conclusive proof of the prosperity pudding being eaten by California as charts of business earnings continue to show an upward trend, said Mr. Wood.

The conference itself, Mr. Wood said, called two paramount things to the public attention: First, that in the words of Governor Merriam, "no new taxes are needed or are advisable;" second, that after all government and government expenses are in the hands of the people, and they can reduce them to the same principle that they built them up, simply by agreeing to do without some of them.

Sees End of Deficit The state deficit, now estimated at slightly over $20,000,000 will be wiped out before 1939, Mr. Stockburger told delegates, estimated through the previous and anticipated future gains in the sales tax receipts.

There are three principal destinations for state tax moneys, it was brought out, state highways, education and relief and public welfare. Public welfare came in for the most consideration of delegates to the conference, Mr. Wood explained.

Largely through the efforts of County Supervisor W. C. Jerome, delegate for the Southern California Economic Council to the conference, a resolution calling for the abolition of the State Relief Administration as quickly as possible, and the reverting of the relief functions to counties and cities was adopted by the convention.

California has definitely bought a ticket on the prosperity train, and is on for the duration of the ride.

Realization of the fact was one of the most important things to be brought out by the recently-concluded tax conference in Sacramento, delegate Howard I. Wood, chamber of commerce secretary, said today.

Sales tax receipts have increased 4 per cent per quarter for the past four consecutive quarters. Gasoline tax receipts increased 11.1 per cent in 1935. Taxes everywhere are showing a remarkable increase in receipts.

RECORDS SET BY AVOCADO RETURNS

The 60 per cent smaller volume of fruit marketed by the Calavo Growers of California during the first quarter of this season has returned cooperative growers more in total proceeds than a year ago, it was announced today by Manager George B. Hodgkin of the growers' cooperative. A total of 75,000 packed boxes was marketed during the first quarter of this season, compared with 184,000 during the same period of last season. The better returns this season are attributed largely to the greater marketing experience and year-around sales contracts, to the advertising and to the creation of many new outlets for avocados in the more distant markets of the country by the growers' cooperative during the last 12 months. Other factors include the association's operation of an increasing number of virtually self-supporting branch offices and of commission items throughout the country, and the marketing cooperation of Florida's organized growers.

Despite this season's crop being twice as large as the greatest produced up to last season, returns are the highest for many years. The first quarter's total is the highest for any first quarter in the industry's history. Famous Scientists Had Same Basic Personalities

By FRANCES TIPTON LONG
Noted Authority on Charm and Personality

"Are your discoveries often brilliant intuitions?" a young reporter once asked Thomas A. Edison. "Do they come to you while you are lying awake at night?" "I never did anything worth doing by accident," replied Edison, "nor did any of my inventions, except the phonograph. No, when I have fully decided that a result is worth getting, I go ahead on it and make trial after trial until it comes."

Persistence! Determination! The will to succeed in spite of obstacles. The ability to stick to it in spite of hindrances. Edison had these qualities. All great men and women have them.

I also enclose a stamp. A young business man wonders why he is not getting ahead in the world. He handles figures and details well, reasons logically and possesses good judgment. But he lacks both determination and persistence. His personality is "wishy-washy."

Show me a successful person who has not had great determination and persistence. Newton discovered the law of gravitation before he was 21, but, due to slight error in measurement, he was unable to demonstrate his theory correctly. But he persisted, persevered. Twenty years later he corrected the error and won eternal fame.

Persistence Counts Einstein worked 15 years on his theory of relativity. One of the paintings that brought fame to Titian was on his easel eight years.

For that matter, how do our popular authors reach success? By writing for years and years without any pay at all, by writing millions of words, by hanging on persistently, by burning rejection slips for heat

ANYTHING but LOVE

by JANET DORAN

Alma Whittaker, society girl in the little town of Burntwood, falls in love with Johnny Anthony, a nobody who turns up from nowhere. He seems to be in love with her but, because of some mysterious secret in his past, flings up a barrier between them. When Alma's father goes bankrupt, Johnny does all in his power to help her, but still draws the line at offering her his love. To spite him, Alma lets him think she is going to marry Sig Borndike, rich young banker, and he leaves town. Actually, she goes to work in the dye department of a mill, does some experimenting and, at the end of several months, perfects a valuable new formula. A few days later, her laboratory is destroyed by fire, and it is believed that the formula has been stolen.

look around the ruins if we went there?" Adele asked.

"I'm sure I don't know," said Caroline briefly, realizing, with contempt, the purpose behind this interest of Adele's in the fire ruins. It was merely an excuse to take Sig to the mill with the hope of running into Alma, so that she could flaunt her victory in the face of the girl who had lost Sig, and was now nothing but a factory girl.

"Do you really want to go, Adele?" Sig demurred uneasily.

"Oh, I'd love to!" Adele insisted. "They probably won't let you in, anyway," Caroline said grimly, turning away. "And I hope a wall caves in on you!" she muttered under her breath as she went off down the street.

Sig and Adele somehow succeeded in getting into the mill to survey the scene of the fire and it was almost five when they finally finished inspecting the ruins. Having seen no sign of Alma, Adele then suddenly decided that she wanted to go over the undamaged part of the plant.

"There's a light in that wing, Sig. Let's see what's in there."

"But why, Adele? What for? Let's get out of here! I'm not so crazy over factories, and besides, we've got to get ready for the party."

"Afraid?" Adele taunted him crisply.

Flushing darkly, he followed her angrily up the steps to the door of the wing.

Bill Sands opened the door to their knock, and glared at them. "What do you want?" he growled. "Don't you know there's no admittance to this plant?"

"I'm Sig Borndike," Sig explained importantly, annoyed by this workman's surly manner and evident ignorance of whom he addressed. "Miss Parnier and I would like to go over the plant."

"You'll have to get a pass from the office!" Bill said grimly. "There's been enough mischief on these grounds already."

"Can't you take us around?" Adele coaxed, smiling sweetly.

"Listen!" he said savagely. "I've a vat of dye ready to come off right this minute, and if it sets too long, the company loses money. As for you, Borndike, if you want to annoy Miss Whittaker, I'd suggest you take a less crude method—something a little less obvious!"

"Really!" drawled Adele. "Why bring up Miss Whittaker? I believe the boy's in love with your little ex-friend, Sig!"

For a charged moment, it seemed as if Bill would hit her, would wreak actual violence. Then he got control of his temper.

"Well," he retorted, "and what if I am? Unlike some men in Burntwood, I know enough to know that I'm not fit to tie Alma Whittaker's shoestrings!"

He seized the handle of the door as if he'd relish slamming it in their faces, and Adele stepped back a pace.

"Well, really!" she gasped. "Really, this is too amusing!"

Just then, a door at the end of the corridor opened, and Alma, in a faded smock, appeared.

"Oh, Bill!" she called, and then saw Sig and Adele. But she was only momentarily disconcerted. "Bill," she continued steadily, "can you help me for a few minutes when you finish your vats?"

"Right away, Alma."

Alma came on down the corridor.

"Hello, Sig," she said quietly. "Did you want to see me about something?"

"No," Sig muttered uncomfortably, his ears reddening. "That is, Adele wanted to see the fire ruins and the plant, so I came along. And this fellow ordered us out."

"What did you want to see particularly?" Alma asked Adele closely.

Adele pulled her furs closer about her in sudden confusion before the direct, calm scrutiny of those appraising amber eyes.

"N-nothing—now," she stammered.

"Perhaps," Alma said, in a tone that left no mistake as to her meaning and understanding of the other girl's motives, "you've seen other girls' motives. You've seen what you came for, Miss Parnier?"

Adele flushed angrily. "Come, Sig," she muttered. "We're already late!"

UNEMPLOYMENT

MOST dismal prospect before the American people is that there is danger of having 10,000,000 unemployed with us for an indefinite time.

The general assumption has been that returning recovery would solve the problem by taking up the unemployment slack through expansion of industry and agriculture. But this assumption is falling to pieces as time goes on.

Billions of dollars have been spent in an effort to relieve unemployment, but about the only accomplishment to date has been to keep the unfortunate jobless from starvation.

And as fast as recovery opens up new jobs, the new crop of youngsters comes along at a rate of 500,000 a year to take places in the ranks of the idle. We are getting no place in a hurry.

The enormous advances which have been made in labor-saving machinery apparently make it impossible to hope that present industry will ever employ the number of men it did in 1929. In fact, the National Industrial Conference board states that even if activity reaches the 1929 level again, only about one-third of the unemployed will get jobs. Yes, it's a dismal outlook.

So far we've come across only two proposals which seem even faintly practical. One is the 30-hour-a-week share-the-labor plan against which sentiment is running strongly.

The other is Henry Ford's assertion that the way to high wages, better living conditions, and more employment lies in producing more and more for less and less.

As the automobile magnate states, millions of people can afford cars and car makers can pay good wages and hire lots of workers because cars are cheap, plentiful, and good. What the automobile industry can do, others can emulate, says he.

Although enormous difficulties attend the move which Mr. Ford suggests, it at least leads away from the gloomy outlook afforded by the present situation.

Famous remarks: What this country needs is a good five-inch rain.—Jupiter Pluvius.

WOMEN IN UNIFORM

A CONSUMER'S advisory board at Washington thinks it would be nice if American women dressed in some sort of uniform and saved money. Also that new hats would cost women less if they didn't insist on trying on 19 before buying one.

All this is true, of course. It would be no trick at all to design a uniform dress in standard sizes and pass a law forcing every woman to wear it. Or to pass another law making a hat-shopper take the first hat she was offered.

But a few days later it wouldn't be any trick at all to start a revolution, either.

Regimentation has gone a long way in the United States, but it will be a dark cold day before American women submit to being forced into uniforms, or made to give up the pleasure of trying on hats.

Every so often, some deep thinker discovers the follies of fashion and what he calls the waste of money and time over the decoration of womankind. But after that, nothing ever happens.

It's a safe bet nothing ever will, either.

A DATE IN MUSIC

HOLLYWOOD correspondents report that Irving Berlin is quietly celebrating the twenty-fifth anniversary of "Alexander's Rag Time Band," the tune that raged through the land in 1911 and established jazz as an American institution.

A controversy still goes on as to whether the band of the "Titanic" played Berlin's tune or "Nearer My God to Thee" as the great ship went down after hitting an iceberg in 1912. It was just that popular.

Jazz has endured ever since as the folk-music of America and has invaded Europe to become almost a cult there. Now, on its twenty-fifth birthday, instead of becoming tamed and refined, syncopated rhythm is reverting to the savagery of its early days as "swing" jazz crowds out "sweet" tunes on the programs of dance orchestras. And today there is no post-war madness to account for it. Pessimists will say it is a new pre-war madness as a doomed society nears collapse.

More cheerful folk will be satisfied to believe that people like jazz because it is jolly and a fine way to get away from the strains, inhibitions and puzzlements of a complex daily round.

HAPPY MARRIAGES

WITH the road to Reno jammed by unhappy couples seeking divorce, it's a pleasure to read that there are three couples in Orange county wedded "until death do us part."

Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Cole, who live near Talbert, will celebrate their 65th wedding anniversary Sunday in the home to which they came as bride and groom in 1871. Before coming to Orange county they lived in Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pedroja, 831 1/2 Minter street, Santa Ana, have been man and wife for more than 59 years. This week they celebrated their anniversary quietly at home with old friends. They came to the United States from Switzerland in 1886.

Mr. and Mrs. John Holmes Tompkins, 711 South Sycamore street, Santa Ana, passed their 50th wedding anniversary this week. They were married a half century ago in Illinois and settled in California in 1918.

The three couples say they have enjoyed every year of married life. Congratulations to all of them. They deserve them.

Whimsies

of O. O. McIntyre

The most recent feminine triumph on the radio has been achieved by the ever vivacious Lois Long.

Long, in a few weeks she was switched from one of straggly fill-in periods to the most auspicious of the Sunday evening hours.

Miss Long, a minister's daughter, is endowed with ability to do modern interpretations of the modern scene in the manner of Noel Coward and Dorothy Parker. She has an ironic but good natured outlook upon everything and a saving grace of always kidding herself.

Her tours of the night clubs and cafes set down under the pseudonym "Lipstick" give the impression she is a sour-visaged harpian viewing the carryings on of the town with venerable alarm. She is in truth a rosy-cheeked, smartly dressed lady of 28.

She was married to the equally talented Peter Arno when each was unknown and the romance clattered with the first mutual taste of fame. But they remain pally. Miss Long entering a room is a study in whirlwinds. One suspects she is the inspiration for the music goes round and around them.

There never was a period in post-war when New York was so expressive of an around-the-clock giddy. Dawn breaks noisily at the reigning haunts, the Stork Club, El Morocco and various Tonys. Lulus Beebe tells of bumping into a sabled stay-out during a recent moon-fade and inquired when she expected to get some sleep. "Next spring," she trilled, bounding into a taxi for the next stop.

Those strictly tailored evening clothes for ladies are, however, one sensible salvage out of the winter insanities. In one quick chuck all the variants of fro-trous have been abandoned. The result is a sort of feminine dinner suit with long skirt, shirt waist of metal cloth and a bolero jacket of wool. Especially distinctive adorning such regal types as Katharine Cornell or Ina Claire.

A popular cocktail spot of the moment has the combination of a scholarly woman owner who reads from the original Greek, speaks four languages and is her own bartender. She is Elvira Peroni, of Italian birth, and a graduate of the College of Torento. She came here to work on an Italian newspaper, and in relaxing moments acquired a talent for blending sundry fizzes for her friends. Not long ago she decided to capitalize this gift, and opened a restaurant in the West 70's.

The young and tousled red-haired Burgess Meredith has become, more than any actor of his time, the Rialto's No. 1 Boy. He is standing up the public nightly to see an insipid dramatic declamation, just because of the stark fervor of his realism. His recent marriage diverted a matinee idol that threatened to eclipse anything since the John Drew days. Although Meredith to ordinary eyes might be a casual of the water front. His tumble of hair is an uncombed sprout and the disorder of his dress would drive a Hawkins to hemlock. He is a perfect realization of that seldom Thespian attainment "a natural." O, yes, he has promised his bride to raise a mustache.

And there are hallelujahs in the exciting world of the theater for the triumphs of Bide Dudley's daughter Doris, a beautiful, slim blond with the grace of a gazelle. Two stage bits have won her a movie contract. It seems yesterday I was fumbling effort at comfort, up and down in front of a hospital with her distraught father one portentous night when she was experiencing the miracle of birth. "If it's a boy," he mumbled. "I want him to be a newspaperman. If a girl, a great actress. If critics are to be believed, Destiny seems to have heard and heeded his desire that night."

Thingumbobs: Lowell Thomas relaxes at dancing academies... Rudy Kipling acquired his writing from studying the Bible... Dean Cornwell has twice abandoned a $60,000 a year income to wander and paint what he pleases... Miriam Hopkins likes to sit and dream while someone improvises at the piano.

Several of us felt in a hugging mood toward a homespun, napkin-tucked-in-collar diner at Theodore's who was tearing into a gorgeous garnished order of the evening special—quail on toast. A waiter captain sidled up to inquire if everything was O. K. Without looking up, he nodded and exclaimed: "No grub better than prairie on light bread."

EVERYDAY MOVIES

By Denys Wortman

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—Behind the uncertainty that has marked the administration's course on the forthcoming tax program is a brain-twisting riddle that only the U. S. supreme court can answer. It is a one billion dollar enigma.

During the two and a half years existence of the late AAA, this amount was collected in processing taxes—almost entirely from the pockets of consumers—and went into the pockets of farmers in the form of crop benefit payments.

This billion dollars is in an entirely different category from the $200,000,000 recently ordered returned to processors by the supreme court.

The $200,000,000 had not been passed on to the growers. It was held in escrow pending the court's decision on the AAA suits. Its return will be a bad blow to the President's budget plans and will necessitate raising of new funds to make up the loss, but it is a tangible and concrete problem.

The billion dollar dilemma, however, is not. In preparing rate schedules for the new tax bill, administration master minds don't know what to do; whether to figure on means of paying the billion or to disregard the huge potential liability.

Lower court legalists differ widely as to the government's accountability for the sum. Some believe, on the basis of the supreme court's order that the $200,000,000 be returned, that the government must eventually refund the billion. Others dispute this. But on one thing all are agreed—that only the nine justices can settle the question.

Meanwhile the administration cannot delay much longer in bringing out a tax plan. The new farm bill has been started on its way through congress and steps must be taken to finance it. Also, provision must be made to raise the $200,000,000 still owing farmers under the AAA.

Inside word is that the tax plan will side-step the billion dollar riddle and call only for funds to pay for the new farm program, plus the unpaid $200,000,000 debt. This will come to a total of about $600,000,000.

While ducking the question of providing for a possible refund of the billion dollars, the administration will not let the issue go wholly untouched. The plan is to write into the new tax bill language that will undertake to validate the disputed sum.

Whether such retroactive legislation will withstand court scrutiny no one knows. But, as one presidential adviser observed: "There is no harm in trying. The government can't lose all the time."

KING COTTON JOHNSTON

Oscar Johnston has just been put in the position of controlling more cotton than any other man in the world's history.

In the government cotton pool there are 1,500,000 bales. Under the control of the Commodity Credit Corporation there are 4,500,000 bales.

For some time, Oscar Johnston has been manager of the cotton pool. More recently, due to illness of Commodity Credit's President Lynn P. Talley, Johnston has become president of that corporation as well. Thus the total number of bales under his thumb is 6,000,000.

The other day an excited cotton broker, hearing that the government was going to dispose of some of its cotton, called Johnston.

"What I want to know," he said, "is this: Is there much danger that these two government agencies, each trying to sell cotton, will interfere with one another?"

The manager of both agencies assured him they would not.

SOL BLOOM

Sol Bloom, New York's iconoclastic congressman, would like to rewrite the school books and throw out four cherished "myths" of American history.

1. That Paul Revere made his famous ride from Boston to Concord and Lexington. Sol says he didn't do it, and couldn't have done it, and nobody supposed he did it until Longfellow, with poetic license, "invented" the tale.

2. That George Washington was born on Feb. 22, 1732. Sol says Washington was born Feb. 11, 1732, and that when the change was made from the Julian to the Gregorian calendar in 1752, Washington lost his rightful birth date.

3. That Washington personally met Betsy Ross and asked her to make a flag for the new union. Sol says, "No one can show me any proof that these two ever met."

4. That Washington threw a dollar across the Potomac river. Sol says, "It's a physical impossibility. He would have had to throw four times farther than Babe Ruth ever batted a ball."

POUR IT ON HIM

Virginia's Representative Clifton A. Woodrum was making a fiery attack on Al Smith's Liberty league speech. Suddenly he was interrupted by a loud blow of the gavel.

"The gentleman's time has expired," roared North Carolina's bald Representative Bud Doughton, at that moment presiding over the house.

"Will the gentleman yield me another five minutes?" begged Woodrum of Acting Floor Leader Edward Taylor, 77-year-old Coloradoan.

"I yield the gentleman 10 additional minutes."

"The gentleman from Virginia," boomed Doughton firmly, "is recognized for 15 additional minutes."

Both Republicans and Democrats joined in the laughter.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

In 1933, Governor Alf Landon was not well enough known to be mentioned in Who's Who. . . . Senator Borah of Idaho was born in Illinois. . . . Senator Johnson of California avoids a split infinitive as he would avoid a poison. . . . Mrs. Flanders, Indiana congresswoman, contends hotly that the supreme court could not deal out justice unless the American flag were flying at the peak of the new palace. . . . One indication that Senator Pat Harrison has a campaign in the offing is the respectful and efficient attention his office staff gives to all job applicants. . . . The grasshopper that has made the strongest comeback since the drought, according to entomology officials, is the strong-flying hopper with the short fuselage and the long wing-spread. . . . The old-fashioned quill pens laid out for the bar in the supreme court disappear rapidly. Lawyers lift them as souvenirs.

A crowd of young people gathered at the Third street school yesterday evening and surprised Miss Irene Cullum whose birthday it was. Those present were Misses Edna Decker, Lena Moch, Lottie Morris, Leonore Patterson, Alice Inman, Evelyn Decker, Myrtle Mateman, Hazel Cullum, Nellie Richards, Clara Belts, and Edith Martin. The boys present included Tom Lacy, Frank Gowen, George Simington, Dode Hunter, Robert Richards, Harry Mix, Emery Kinney, Bert Hassler, Barney Mackey and Ralph Cullum.

They have agreed to put themselves and their machines at the disposal of the United States government to take observations of army activities in Mexico if granted permission by the Mexican government and insurgents.

It was authoritatively announced today that J. Wiley Harris, L. J. Carden and J. A. Nunn will be candidates for the city council from the second, first and fifth wards respectively.

The Sunshine club held the last of its all day meetings Friday afternoon with Mrs. E. J. Eaton. The next meeting, which is scheduled for the second Wednesday of next month, will be held at the home of Mrs. M. B. Patton.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Cain were hosts at a pleasant dinner yesterday in honor of the former's birthday. Among those for whom covers were laid were Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Durfee, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Haptenstall, Huntington Beach, and Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Hall of Wintersburg.

One Man's Opinion

By Duncan Ellsworth Clark

EDITOR'S NOTE:—Here is an informative, analytical daily feature on current topics. The opinions expressed in this column are not necessarily the same as those held by The Journal.

His Majesty, the Law, Brings Ridicule On Self

WHEN LAWS don't mean what they say public respect for government suffers. There was to be no extension of time for tardy motorists to get their licenses plates. Dire threats for those who lingered past the deadline. No such leniency as in former years. No excuses, no alibis no monkeyshines. Pay up or get arrested and socked double penalty. Officialdom would show no milk of human kindness this time. So that was that, and everybody was cowed into proper submission to legally constituted authority.

And then someone found a tiny loophole in the law. And at the last moment another day was granted. "But," said the law, "mind you get under the tape before another 24 hours roll around or your name is mud." And such a scurrying as there was. And when the pistol was getting ready to crack, piff, another bubble burst. Four more days were added so that the sleep-car owner in the state could crawl in at the home stretch.

Why such foolishness in administering a law? If the legal limit was Jan. 30 or 31 or Feb. 4 why didn't officialdom know it? They had months to prepare for the

Their publication does not necessarily imply the opinions they express are shared by The Journal. Letters must be signed, although signatures will be omitted upon request.

USE OF SCHOOLHOUSE

TO THE EDITOR: A local service club has endorsed a resolution recommending to the school trustees that they refuse the use of the school auditorium except where the subject for discussion is of immediate interest to the people of Garden Grove.

We believe this is contrary to the sentiment of the majority of the people of this community, and feel the use of the school auditorium, when you consider what it costs the taxpayers, should be extended instead of contracted; that it should take the place of the old town hall of early days, when every community was made of a homogeneous whole and not broken up into little special groups as they are today—like service clubs, chambers of commerce, farm bureaus and grange, each with a special little axe to grind. The old town hall is gone, and our school auditoriums are practically sepulchers of emptiness.

Since the advent of radios, improvement in transportation and communication, the world is our backyard, and the changes taking place in that world is of interest to all of us. We believe those changes should be freely discussed, both pro and con, so that the mass of the people will know the truth.

The suppression of "free discussion" is a step in the path of violence, and leads only to dictatorship and revolution. "Free discussion" in a democracy will bring about orderly change through mutual understanding. We believe "free discussion" of these national and world changes will help us to plan our course in the path of true democracy, before the tides of change carry us on to desolates we know not where.

We believe the use of our school auditorium for these discussions will prove more profitable to our community, and be more in keeping with the aims of true education than the use of these auditoriums for the presentation of trifling plays.

The members of the Garden Grove Grange recommend to the school trustees that they put a liberal interpretation on the rules governing the use of the school auditorium for public purposes, that the common people may have a common meeting place to discuss their common problems to the end that our schools may be a true citadel of learning, an ever-flowing fountain for the dissemination of knowledge, and our auditorium a free and untrampled forum of the people in this our beloved land of democracy.

EARNEST J. SMALE, Garden Grove.

Remarkable Remarks

President Roosevelt has added more than 100,000 employees to the payroll, or shall I say payroll?—James M. Beck, prominent Republican.

Cowboys don't sing much, let alone hang around a fire and yell in one another's faces over a quail. Remember, Maury Maxwell, Texas, protesting cowboy tricks.

I can see a day approaching when we shall find street performers bearing placards inscribed "Deaf, Dumb, and Blind Through Contagious Music." F. W. Hinchliff, who claims jazz music makes horns performers.

The political machine is a great contributing factor to crime. It levies tribute on employees, cuts their salaries, and starves them. Many of the judges have to "kowtow" to the political boss, too.—Courtney Ryley Cooper, author.

SKINNY SKRIBBLES

Around and About Town

With C. F. SKIRVIN

Out to a social entanglement. George Washington wouldn't have stood for it. However, George never lived under the persuasive influence of our times, but Rupert Hughes said he of hatchet fame would step out for an evening with the hoops and skirts for the Virginia reel, and an occasional cock-tail. So far as I am concerned George's habits were his own, and his patriotism compensated for all his faults.

The flare of society always chilled my spinal column. In my days when an occasional party was listed on the social calendar, "among those present" meant more than the croix de guerre, and the distinction so frightened me that "Tom Sawyer" and "Huckleberry Finn" became my heroes. The rustle of a lady's skirt sent me into the catacombs, but since the styles changed the rustle of the lady's skirt is no more heard on each of them, and occasionally get into a conversation with the blonde, and others who have been both blonde and brunette, and some henna.

Guy Gilbert persuaded me to let go of two good pieces of currency with the figure one stamped on each of them, and attend an anniversary party. He promised me a big time, and the prospects were just that, until a lady of my acquaintance thought the party was likely to turn into a hi-jinks, so that was out. But when an orchestra of high school boys could play the Star Spangled Banner without the music I thought it was time to send for the Portuguese, the Armenians and the Greeks, and if Gilbert ever gets any more party money from me I'll pick the musicians.

Oh, well, you got to get something for two dollars, so a lady who could see better with her eyes closed did some mystery reading, and by golly I wouldn't like to be her husband. She knows what you got in your pocket, and that isn't the worst of it—she knows what you got in your head. The investigation closed before she got down to my size, and what a relief.

Then "Skipper" Dixon took us on a trip through the jungles, into Johannesburg, through Abyssinia, introduced us to Emperor Haile Selassie, who is a Lathorian in his own right; told us something about a banquet where the piece de resistance was a native, and spoke of another form of entertainment which was popular when the Romans fed lions from the miscellaneous population. Slavery thrives. There are no doles. You get a job whether you ask for it or not, and strikes are unpopular. If you don't like it they have a way of chopping down your anatomy until you change your mind.

After listening to Dixon I decided that we had the finest country in the world and didn't know it. That we can make more fuss over nothing, and get more for doing less than any other people in the world. What the average American needs is to take a few world tours into those countries which he sees in an Atlas, and find out whether he wants to make a change or not. If "Skipper" Dixon gave us the right dope, Abyssinia is one of them I'll scratch off my score card. And yet we have university professors and public school teachers who sing to us a Soviet lullaby, while agents continue to spread the poison of communism, and every other ism except patriotism.

Now we arrive at the place where women rejoice and men are dismayed. Announcement is voiced that a bridge contest is to start, and to select your sparring partner. Boy, if Joe Louis had been available I would have paid handsomely for a substitute, provided they did not draw the color line. The gong sounds and I took the count for two down. Bridge is the great American indoor sport. It's not as bad as it is bid.

Well, there is an end to everything, and when the auditors got all my scores the grand total was around 510, and from that point on very few knew I had even been in the game. In club operation there is a system known as a fine, but my participation in this particular event returned a punishment in the form of an unused tea roll, and a cake in a ruffled ramekin. It wouldn't have been any more palatable delivered in any other form.

Had an uneasy hunch all evening that some kind of a penalty was hanging over my head for an unofficial bridge opinion appearing in this column a few days ago, but if you are going to give it you should be good sport enough to take it. Along about midnight someone was thoughtful enough to make the suggestion that we go home. So we start to rumble for the humble domicile, and I was much more content between two blankets than I was between two cards. Au revoir, with some soda, please.
